Even functional medicine doctors like Dr. Will Cole agree that algae has protective benefits:

"Our immune system is our body's defense mechanism against invading bacteria and viruses. Without a strong immune system, you are more likely to fall prey to illnesses, especially during the winter months when the flu virus abounds. That's why I always load up during this time with immune-supporting foods like spirulina and chlorella. These superfoods have been shown to support the immune system and significantly cut the severity of influenza symptoms. I love RECOVERYbits® tablets since they provide an easy nutrient-dense source of chlorella."
